

Limaçon metric on sunflowers

Christophe Golé, Smith College

Seeds in sunflower heads can be arranged in logarithmic spiral lattices. When seeds are represented by circles of exponentially increasing radius centered at lattice points, conditions on their tangency gives rise to a non-riemannian metric whose circles are Pascal limaçons, and whose paths of shortest length are logarithmic spirals.